Goldilocks: After the Bears Came Home

Goldilocks was frightened when the bears came home and found her in their bed. Although she ran away, the bears called their policeman friend, Roz, and he caught Goldilocks at the edge of the forest. He made her return to the bears house and apologize for eating all of their food and breaking their chair. He brought her to jail and she went to trial. The judge and jury found her guilty of breaking and entering and she was ordered to work for the bears until her to make up for the damage.

She and the bears formed a beautiful friendship and Papa Bear built her a room of her own. She stayed with them and lived happily ever after.
