

Texas Landforms: Influence on Cities

Influence of Geographic Factors in Texas

Major Texas cities are located near rivers and plains because in the early days it was easier to grow food and start factories near the water. There are not very many major cities in West Texas because the land has mountains.

